

MRS. MARY ROGERS WILL NOT HANG IN VERMONT ON FRIDAY

GOVERNOR BELL GIVES REPRIEVE TO THE WOMAN

Respite Until June 2nd
Is Granted.

HUNDREDS SIGN PETITIONS

To Save Life of Mrs. Edwards
Who is Now Under Death Sentence in Pennsylvania.

(Bulletin)

Montpelier, Vt., Feb. 2.—Governor Bell this afternoon announced that he would grant a reprieve in the case of Mrs. Mary Rogers until June 2.

Montpelier, Vt., Feb. 2.—Governor Bell made a statement this morning which probably foreshadows the fate of Mrs. Mary Rogers, who is under sentence to die on the gallows at Windsor tomorrow for the murder of her husband. The governor, who gave a hearing yesterday to persons interested in saving the woman from such an ignominious death will announce his decision late this afternoon. The governor said today:

"I do not believe the people of Vermont desire that the woman shall be granted a reprieve. My decision will be unswayed by prejudices or passion and will be according to my interpretation of justice, the laws of the state and my conscience. I do not care what the outside world thinks."

MAY SAVE MRS. EDWARDS.
Reading, Pa., Feb. 2.—That the people of Pennsylvania revolt against the spectacle of a woman being hanged in this state was shown today by the announcement that more than 1500 letters and 200 petitions each bearing scores of names have been forwarded to Governor Pennypacker within a week on behalf of Mrs. Kate Edwards who is doomed to die here February 15. The campaign to save the life of the condemned woman is led by Oliver Lentz, a young lawyer, who has fought for her four years singlehanded and unsupported. He says he can show that since Mrs. Edwards' conviction he has gained convincing proof that the woman was subject to epilepsy. He contends that this fact shows positively that the woman was of unsound mind, which would make her execution on the gallows barbaric.

MRS. ROGERS' FATE

Governor of Vermont Will Decide at Once Whether This Woman Shall Die.

Montpelier, Vt., Feb. 2.—Whether Mary Mabel Rogers, now occupying the death cell at the Windsor state prison, will die on the gallows next Friday afternoon, as ordered by the court in which she was found guilty of murdering her husband, Marcus Rogers, or be granted a reprieve while the supreme court is petitioned for a new trial, will be announced at Waterbury late this afternoon by Governor Bell. This much was made known by the governor at the conclusion of a hearing given by him Wednesday evening, and at which he was urged to grant a stay of execution. Governor Bell added that the privilege to resign belonged to the sheriff and deputies, who were among the petitioners, if they wish to be relieved from the execution of the law.

CONVICTS

Capture an Engine and Make a Bold Dash for Liberty—Two Life Terms Taken.

Houston, Tex., Feb. 2.—A sensational delivery of prisoners took place in the Huntsville penitentiary. The life-sentence prisoners captured an engine which runs into the prison, overpowered the trainmen, pulled the throttle wide open and sent the engine on a wild dash out of the walls, going through a fusillade of bullets fired by guards.

The engine was run on to the main line and then five miles from the town, where it was abandoned and the convicts took to the woods. Bloodhounds and a posse of prison officials were soon in pursuit. A capture was effected due to one prisoner having been shot through the body, which rendered speed on his part impossible. A companion refused to desert him and both were taken. The convicts were Tiffin and Wilson, up for murder on life sentences.

SHOCK

Of a False Report That Her Husband Had Been Killed Resulted in the Bride's Death.

Alaska, W. Va., Feb. 2.—Mrs. Hannah May Cheshire, nee Duvall, aged 21, a bride of five months, died in Cumberland, Md., from fright.

She was greatly shocked upon being told that her husband, Edward Cheshire, a railroad man, had been killed in an accident on the Pittsburgh division of the B. & O. road. The report proved untrue, but she never recovered from the shock. In going to her home after hearing of the supposed accident she fell several times and was much bruised.

The minister who officiated at her wedding will also officiate at her funeral which will occur at her old home here.

SIGHT AND SPEECH RESTORED BY MIRACLE

Is Claim of Miss Hanson Who is on Trial at Chicago for Perjury—A Peculiar Case.

Chicago, Feb. 2.—A miracle brought about by prayer was sworn to in court by Miss Inga Hanson, a former member of the Salvation Army, who is on trial here charged with perjury in connection with a personal damage suit brought by her against the Chicago City Railway company. Under oath she testified that the alleged miracle restored her sight, speech and hearing. This remarkable explanation came from the lips of the young woman as an answer to the charge that her ailments had been conceived to further a $50,000 conspiracy, had been admitted through five years of litigation, and had suddenly ceased. The scene of the alleged visitation was in Richmond, Va., and according to the girl's claims was produced by prayer with an itinerant Methodist missionary who visited her. Miss Hanson lost her suit against the street railway company.

Washington, Feb. 2.—Cardinal Gibbons has sent the following statement to the representative of the bureau of Catholic Indian missions in this city for submission to the senate committee on Indian affairs: "In view of certain statements made by Senator Bard before the committee on Indian affairs, I deem it proper to state that the Catholic church has no political agent at Washington or anywhere else; that Professor E. L. Scharf, who is referred to in Senator Bard's statement, is not an agent of the Catholic church or of the bureau of Catholic Indian missions, and has never been employed by the church or by the Catholic Indian bureau in any way whatsoever."

The men had been receiving from $9 to $10 a week, and they now ask for a uniform wage of $12. Officers of the union claim that 400 members are on strike and that an additional 100 drivers will join the ranks of the strikers. There are about 900 regularly employed cabbies in the city.

BILL REPORTED

Agreed Upon by Merchant Marine Commission

GROSVENOR'S TALK TO HOUSE

Ohio Congressman Claims a Nation Strong in War Must Also be Strong in Peace.

Washington, Feb. 2.—Chairman Grosvenor sharply criticized the condition of American shipping when he reported to the house the bill agreed to by the merchant marine commission, with favorable recommendation from the house committee on merchant marine and fisheries. He says that foreign shipping competitors are scarcely "rivals," they are "triumphant enemies, triumphing over the disaster that has come to American enterprise, and rejoicing in the utter inability of the American people to wisely expend their own money." Again he says: "This bill has stirred the sluggish blood in our foreign competitors, and they see in it danger to their supremacy. Acknowledging our triumph in rivalry in all branches of business and commerce with the exception of this one, England has gloated over our weakness in this behalf. England does the carrying trade of South America. England handles the products of South American industries. England crosses the mighty ocean and carries away raw material that would come to this country if we had ships trading to South America." Comment is made upon the one hundred million dollar naval bill, with the conclusion that "no nation was ever dominant on the sea in time of war that was not strong on the sea in time of peace in its merchant marine." In conclusion the report says that it should come today we have not 10 ships in our merchant marine fit to be taken over by the government for war purposes, and we could not man with efficient sailors one-half the battle ships, cruisers, torpedo boats, etc., of our splendid navy. The merchant marine is a handmaiden of the war navy, and no nation ever achieved greatness in one direction which was not strong in the other."

President of Harvard Submits His Annual Report—More Money is Needed.

Cambridge, Mass., Feb. 2.—President Charles W. Eliot's report for the year 1903-1904 of Harvard university states that there was a deficit of $30,000 in 1903-'04, and predicts an inevitable deficit in spite of considerable economies in the current fiscal year. He names the two obvious resources, raising tuition fees and procuring a larger endowment. The former resources, he believes, should be held in reserve. A larger endowment, he declares to be the pressing need of the college. The best form of endowment, President Eliot says, is that for salaries. Two million five hundred thousand dollars is named by the president as a moderate estimate for the accomplishment of the reasonable objects now plainly in view for the college proper.

BOLTS NIEDRINGHAUS

Representative Brown Thinks Party Should No Longer Support Him for Senator.

Jefferson City, Mo., Feb. 2.—Representative D. C. Brown of Grundy county, who changed his vote from Mr. Niedringhaus to Representative Pettibone, made a statement. He said in part: "In some days past I have been laboring under a conviction that I was doing violence to my conscience and a wrong to the Republican party in continuing to vote for Mr. Niedringhaus, and after careful consideration of the testimony taken before the senate investigating committee I am of the opinion that the disclosures there developed involve him in transactions that our party can not afford to condone."

HARDING TALKS

After Conference With Foraker—The Fight for Nomination Now on in Earnest.

Columbus, O., Feb. 2.—Lieutenant Governor Warren G. Harding was in conference here with Senator Foraker, at the conclusion of which Mr. Harding made the following statement: "Senator Foraker and I have been discussing the Ohio political situation."

HON. WARREN G. HARDING.

We have been talking frankly. There is no new statement to offer. There is no delay of decision depending upon deals. There is more concern about results next November than in specific statements and personal ambitions. For myself, there is no change in position, and Senator Foraker has made his attitude clear."

HEAVY STORM

THERMOMETERS

In Montana Register 46 Below—In Chicago 14 Below.

Chicago, Feb. 2.—A cold wave with a minimum temperature of 11 degrees below zero, bleak winds and a raw damp atmosphere, brought misery to the poverty stricken and exposed residents of Chicago this morning. By 10 o'clock today the mercury was climbing toward zero. The victims reported so far today are:

Edward Benst, found in a vacant lot; his hands and feet were frozen and amputation may be necessary.

Mrs. Mary Gardner, nose frozen while riding on a street car.

John Olmquist, found in a hallway; frozen about the limbs and face.

Unidentified man found in the street; unconscious from the effects of liquor and the temperature; may die.

The lowest temperature in the country were throughout North and South Dakota, where 29 degrees below zero prevailed from midnight till daylight; Nebraska and Iowa, which had 20 degrees below and in Wisconsin, Minnesota and Michigan, with varying temperatures from 10 to 15 degrees below. Farwell, Montana, registered 46 degrees below zero this morning.

The zero line extended as far south as the Ohio river and southern Missouri. The forecast for the next 24 hours is continued below zero, with a minimum of 15 below tomorrow morning.

Takes Two Years.

New York, Feb. 2.—After ten years of labor and the expenditure of $9,000,000 the new Croton dam, near Croton, N. Y., in Westchester county, from which this city will draw largely for water supply, has been practically completed. It is the largest piece of masonry in the world, except the pyramids of Egypt. The first water has been shut down for the first time, and the dam has begun to fill with water.

It is estimated that it will require about a year for the dam to fill. When the water reaches the last of its storage capacity, a lake 10 miles long and 100 feet deep will hold a million gallons of water.

More Peaceful Today.
Warsaw, Russia, Feb. 2.—The strikers are expected to resume work on Monday. Efforts to alleviate the sufferings of the strikers' families are being pushed. Employees are largely sympathetic to the strikers' political demands. The situation in the rest of Poland is more peaceful today.

What Will Czar Do?

St. Petersburg, Feb. 2.—It is impossible to confirm the sensational report current since the meeting of the czar and the representatives of the workmen yesterday that the czar intends to give the people a constitution. Well informed persons say the report is entirely without foundation. They assert that the czar simply is urging haste in drawing up of the reforms outlined in the imperial ukase of December 25. It is not believed the mass of the people will at present be given a voice in determining national affairs, but it is suggested the more intellectual classes may be placated by the enlargement of membership on the council of the empire, which is likely to be made. To remember the British privy council, and with members of the body the czar will consult, although he will not be bound to accept the advice given. The general opinion in all circles is that some reforms will shortly be inaugurated, but it is thought they will take the form of extension of self-government, more educational facilities and less rigid censorship of the press.

FOR FIVE DAYS

Battle Raged on Hun River Without Decisive Results—Russians Admit Heavy Loss.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 2.—A dispatch from Russian headquarters below Mukden says: The five-days' battle on the Hun river has yielded no palpable result, both sides practically maintaining their former positions, though it is true that at heavy cost the Russians succeeded in driving the Japanese out of their advanced positions and repelling their flanking column. The Russian cavalry proved extremely efficient. There is again a lull in the campaign, and it is possible that military operations will be suspended until the end of February.

For five days Russian soldiers hurled themselves against the defenses and field artillery pounded until the frosty air reverberated with the thunder of cannon, the din of bursting shells and the rattle of musketry; but neither steel-pointed shell nor nickel bullet availed against the frozen earthwork of the Japanese. The gunners actually went with despair at the impotence of the attack. Mortar batteries came up at a gallop in the hope of demolishing the fortifications. Night and day the stream of shells was poured against the earthworks, but it had very little effect.

General Kuropatkin, telegraphing from the front, reports that Sandapas was set on fire by Russian artillery Jan. 30. In a telegram dated Jan. 31 the commander-in-chief reports a continuance of a successful bombardment of Sandapas, and says Russian balloons noticed a portion of the Japanese garrison had been withdrawn. The general mentions a number of minor attacks and counterattacks at outposts, villages and passes already reported in dispatches.

Like the wave caused by the falling of a stone, the strike movement, however, is spreading over the great area of Russian industrial life, and what St. Petersburg and Moscow, where the trouble began, are now placed, the workmen of Poland and other provinces are not yet calm, and the ripple has reached to far-off Irkutsk and other Siberian towns.

Workmen Promised Relief.
Czar Nicholas in his talk to a delegation of workmen who at his invitation visited the winter palace, gave assurance of his intention to ameliorate the present economic conditions. The emperor adopted the traditional fatherly tone in his talk with the workmen. He closed them by aslowing themselves to be misled into engaging in a movement imperiling the internal order of Russia and aiding the foreign foe, and for attempting to demand by force what he otherwise would be willing to do voluntarily. The workmen received the royal assurances of reform with cheers, and after a lunch at the imperial table returned to St. Petersburg in the best of humor.

The action of the St. Petersburg manufacturers in placing themselves in the hands of the government in the matter of the adjustment of the main points of the dispute and to grant the men pay for the time they have been on strike, not as a matter of right but as a favor, and their contribution in aid of the sufferers among the families of their workmen, are expected to add to the prevailing good feeling.

The current gossip to the effect that M. Boulgan, former governor of Moscow, will succeed Prince Sviatopolk-Mirsky in the ministry of the interior is another straw tending to confirm the surmise that Grand Duke Sergius is the dominant influence in the grand ducal faction. The appointment of General Trepoff to the governor-generalship of St. Petersburg, who was Sergius' nominee, narrowed the power of the minister of the interior, and it is believed precipitated Prince Sviatopolk-Mirsky's resignation.

Ten 40 Deaths From Disease.
Tientsin, Feb. 2.—Japanese field surgeons and field hospitals have accomplished a triumph, according to statistics obtained from the chief surgeon of General Oku's army. There have been in the entire army since the landing on May 6 only 40 deaths from diseases. The figures show that up to Dec. 1 there were treated 24,642 cases of disease. Of these 40 resulted fatally. Of the patients recovered, 5,609 were sent to Japan, and the remainder were undergoing treatment when the figures were compiled. It is believed that these figures are unequalled in the history of warfare.

For Families of Victims.
St. Petersburg, Feb. 2.—An official proclamation conveys the heartfelt sympathies of the emperor, the empress and the dowager empress to the families of those killed in the street fighting of Jan. 22. They have placed $25,000 at the disposal of the governor-general, Trepoff, for the aid of the families of the sufferers.

OREGON SENATOR IS AGAIN INDICTED

Federal Grand Jury Charges John H. Mitchell With Bribery—Brownell Also Indicted.

Portland, Ore., Feb. 2.—The federal grand jury indicted United States Senator John H. Mitchell on another charge of bribery, and also indicted State Senator George C. Brownell, one of the foremost Republican politicians and lawyers in this state, on charges of subornation of perjury. The indictment against Senator Mitchell alleges that while a senator from this state to the federal congress he accepted on seven different occasions sums of money aggregating $4,500 from a timberland dealer named Frederick R. Kribs for services rendered in it. It is alleged, inducing Congressman Binger Hermann, then commissioner of the general land office at Washington, to expedite, make special and approve certain applications for public lands and recommend the issuing of patents to the lands.

ELEVEN DOLLARS

A Traveling Salesman Was Fined for Kissing a Bride Against Her Wishes.

Newcastle, Ind., Feb. 2.—Grant Gordon, a traveling salesman for a Chicago picture house, made bold to kiss the pretty six months' bride of Charles Thomas while she was at her home alone yesterday.

He had visited the home with the idea of disposing of some of his samples, but did not succeed before leaving. He threw his arms about the young woman and bestowed a kiss full on her lips. The girl hurriedly took her departure, but returned within a half hour to again attempt to press his attentions upon Mrs. Thomas. He did not gain admittance.

In the morning the police were notified and arrested him. His arrest in police court today was fined $11.

HIT BY TRAIN

Ten Women Killed Three Injured

A Sleigh With 13 People Stuck by Engine

ALL KILLED OR INJURED

Sled Party Returning from a Church Driver Was Unable to Stop Horses.

Hornellsville, N. Y., Feb. 2.—Coroner Sutton this morning began an investigation into the railway crossing accident last night by which ten women of Hornellsville lost their lives. Three others are seriously injured and one more death may result.

Hornellsville, N. Y., Feb. 2.—A sleigh containing 13 persons, all women, was struck and reduced to splinters by a passenger train on the Pittsburg, Shawmut and Northern road. Ten of the occupants were killed and three terribly injured. The disaster occurred near Arkport, and the victims were occupants of one of three sleighs carrying a party from church. The dead: Mrs. F. Broughton, Mrs. Mary Gillette, Mrs. Charles Thomas, Mrs. Eugene Shaw, Mrs. Joseph Hallett, Mrs. C. C. Graves, Mrs. Bert Moore, Mrs. Ruth Patchen, Mrs. Coates, Mrs. Fred Green. The injured: Mrs. F. R. Rowley, Mrs. Bond, Mrs. Wallace Clark.

The occupants of the leading sleigh saw the train approaching as they neared the Shawmut crossing and passed over the tracks in safety. The women in the first sleigh then attempted to warn those in the one following of the danger, and they did succeed in directing their attention to the rapidly approaching train. The driver pulled up his horses but he could not check the heavy bob-sled quickly enough, and when it came to a standstill the box of the sleigh was directly across the railroad track. The pilot of the engine struck the sleigh with great force, reducing it to splinters and hurling the women in all directions. Every woman on the sleigh was either killed or injured.

Waggaman to recover $78,399 alleged to be due on promissory notes covering various dates between 1897 and 1900, which are due and unpaid and on which payment has been refused. The university also filed suit against Henry P. Waggaman to recover $49,000, with interest, alleged to be due on a promissory note originally made to Benjamin K. Plain and subsequently indorsed to and held by the university. Rector O'Connell says that the payment of this note was refused by the defendant.

Postoffice Appropriation.
Washington, Feb. 2.—The postoffice appropriation bill occupied the attention of the house. The usual annual fight on special mail facilities on trunk lines cropped out. Mr. Moon of Tennessee arraigned those Democrats supporting the proposition, charging them with favoring a subsidy which would benefit their sections, while at the same time inveighing against the Republican party for its attitude regarding subsidies in general.

Public Debt.
Washington, Feb. 2.—The monthly statement of the public debt shows that at the close of business Jan. 31, 1905, the debt, less cash in the treasury, amounted to $989,929,619, which is an increase for the month of $4,380,298. This increase is principally accounted for by the decrease in the amount of cash on hand. The debt proper shows a decrease for the month of $1,586,595.

Mr. Dillingham supported the measure as it stands and the other two senators contended for amendments and the right of the four territories to be admitted as so many states. In his reply to Mr. Dillingham, Mr. Teller charged that Vermont had retrograded and quoted figures to show that there had been a falling off in the value and number of farms in that state. Mr. Dillingham replied that this condition was due to consolidation of small farms.

Stories Told by Footlight Favorites

WHEN Lillian Russell was dining with some of her professional friends the other evening she told a story about an eccentric friend of hers, says the New York Times. This old lady had an aversion to paying calls. She went about once a year, but never got out of her carriage. She would send her coachman up the steps and make him stick a card under the door. One day as she was starting out on one of these annual visiting tours she said to her new coachman:

"John, I forgot my cards. You'll find them on my table upstairs. Run up there and get 'em." John got the cards and they went the rounds. After some fifty calls had been made in rapid succession, the man showing a card under every door, his mistress decided she had done a good day's work.

"Now, John," she said, "we'll pay two more calls and then go home."
"All right, ma'am," he answered, "that suits exactly. I've got just two cards left—the ace of spades and the jack of diamonds."

Elliston, the eccentric manager of Drury Lane theater, engaged an actor of whom he had heard good reports to play in the revival of 'Venice Preserved.' But unfortunately he did not come up to the mark, and when he reached the line, "Alas, where is my honor now?" Elliston exclaimed:

"I wish to heaven your honor were back in Newcastle, where you came from!"

James O'Neil of "Monte-Christo" fame tells a story about Frank Mayo, the Davy Crockett of days gone by. Mayo had borrowed $100 in the morning and had promised to repay it before he went to bed.

"Mayo and I were having a late supper when suddenly Mayo slapped his hand in his pocket. 'By Jove!' he exclaimed, jumping up. 'I've got to pay a man $100 tonight before I go to bed. Come on.'"

"Where does he live?" I questioned.

"Well, that's the trouble. I don't know. He lives on Thirty-eighth street, between Seventh and Broadway."

"But how are you going—"

"Never mind," said Mayo. "Come on." And we went out.

"In time we reached Thirty-eighth street and Broadway, and then Mayo stood in the middle of the street and in a voice that filled the midnight called: 'Henry Ford! Henry Ford!'"

"Windows began to go up in all the houses, and heads were stuck out to view the two lone men standing in the street, one calling Henry Ford to 'come down and get your money.'"

"A policeman who came by walked up to Mayo and recognized him. Mayo explained that he had $100 that must be paid before he went to bed and continued to call. We walked nearly the entire block when a window on the top floor of a house was thrown open, and to the next 'Henry Ford, come down and get your money,' which was by this time being laughingly echoed by the entire neighborhood, a man called:

"What the deuce do you want?"

"Thank heaven," called back Mayo, "it's you, Ford! Here's your $100. Come down and get it."

"Yes," echoed the walls about 'Henry Ford, for goodness' sake, do come down and get your money!'"

Richard Golden, the star of Henry W. Savage's successful production of "Common Sense Brackett," has an aunt in Waltham, Mass., who seldom attends the theater. Recently, however, Golden prevailed upon her to come to New York and see his show, and she finally consented.

To Golden's mind the performance seemed to go smoothly, and, meeting his aunt after the final act, he inquired as to how she liked it.

"Parts of it were good, Dick, parts of it were just as natural as could be," replied the aunt. "But, Richard, if I were you I would have a good teacher to make that hand play in time in the second act."

Golden walked silently away, as he could not muster up courage enough to tell her that the chief source of fun in the second act is the "tuba band," playing each selection in the standard false notes.

The late Dan Leno was a big find for his country, who had at times been carried to excess. In the middle of one of his successful tours in the provinces he took a run into London and visited his favorite club. He was so delighted with the good dinner provided and the excellent service rendered by the waiter that he determined to reward the servant a goodly sum. Calling the waiter to him, he asked him how long he had been working at the club and he learned that he had been with the organization since its foundation. "And what was the biggest tip you ever received?" asked the comedian. "Two sovereigns, sir," replied the waiter. "Well, my boy," said Leno, "I'm going to make that fellow look silly. Here's a five for you. Now tell me who was it that gave you £2?" "Well," said the waiter, after he had carefully pocketed the five-pound note, and with a natural hesitation, "it was yourself, sir."

May Irwin, who has been on the stage since childhood and who is now playing "Mrs. Black Is Back," ascribes her success to "hard work and horse sense."

"Go ahead to star!" she said recently. "Not much! I would probably come back here and sing you some of those wonderful 'coon' songs like there about 'Alligators on the Shores of Old Lake Erie' and 'Picking Cotton in Old Massachusetts.' I remember hearing one over there, 'My Dusky, Dark Eyed Belle From Maine.'"

"And how I would look trying to sing 'coon' songs with a cockney accent! It would give me stage fright of the worst kind. I have it often enough on this side. People cannot realize how full of real downright hard work this life is. They say I skip down to the footlights and sing as naturally as if I liked it. They think it's fun for me, and fun for which I receive good money. Fun? Why, I carry the load from the time the curtain goes up until it rolls down."

Miss Irwin tells many anecdotes about Augustin Daly's eccentricities. "The many stories of Willie Collier, while he was call boy at the theater, imitating Mr. Daly behind the scenes are true. The governor, as we called Mr. Daly, got himself into all sorts of queer postures when he was at work. He would twist one leg up behind the other and get all in a snarl. Willie would get behind him and imitate him, exaggerating it awfully, of course, but following him right along in every movement."

"It was execratically funny, and I always laughed hard. The governor would hear the titter behind him and, without turning his head, say, 'Willie, tell them to keep quiet,' and Willie would come right up to me and say: 'Sh! Why, I came near losing my engagement there that way.'"

J. H. Stoddard, the veteran actor who is starring in "The Bonnie Brier Bush" at the age of seventy-seven, was recently complimented upon his vigor, and he answered that he believed he could hold his own pretty well with the boys, saying that, like Adam in "As You Like It," he, too, could explain:

For in my youth I never did apply Hot and rebellious liquors in my blood.

When the subject of drinking is referred to the old actor recalls an experience which came near being his undoing. It was during the run of "A Celebrated Case" in 1878, in which Mr. Stoddard played the role of the sergeant.

"In the prologue I had a scene with Mrs. Booth, who played the wife of Jean Renaud, the hero, in the course of which he was supposed to give me, as the sergeant, a cup of wine, which I had to swallow. It so happened that the property man had been using kerosene oil on the stage during the day and had left the bottle containing that liquid upon the dresser where Mrs. Booth was in the habit of finding the drink for the sergeant. During the business she poured a full cup from this bottle, handed it to me, and I swallowed the contents at a gulp. 'Oh, Lord!' I said as I received the potion. 'What have I done?' asked Mrs. Booth under her breath. I could only gasp out 'Kerosene!' and make a basty exit. For almost a week every one who came within range of my breath sniffed and inquired if I detected the odor of coal oil."

The night Miss Grace George, who is at present in the all star "Two Orphans" company, made her hit in "Under Southern Skies" her husband, William A. Brady, the theatrical manager, was so pleased that he ran on the stage and planted a kiss on his wife's cheek just as the curtain unexpectedly arose in response to an encore. Brady dashed off the stage, the skirts of his raincoat waving behind him as he ran. But the audience, which had caught him in the act, applauded madly, and the uproar did not cease until the blushing Brady was dragged before the curtain.

One day in New York Miss George had forty-six requests for her autograph and was naturally much pleased. The next day many more came.

"I've had more than a hundred requests for signatures since Monday," she said exultantly to Mr. Brady. "Isn't that a sign of success? Doesn't that look as though my autograph were worth something?"

"Worth something?" replied Mr. Brady drily. "Well, I should say it was worth something. It's worth $4 for each specimen. The treasurer at the Herald Square had cashed nearly twenty orders for seats bearing your name before he found you out."

The Jiu Jitsu's Undoing

PHILETUS BROWN secured by mail a jiu jitsu course. He learned the way to use his strength with suddenness and force. And how to swiftly call in play each muscular resource. He learned to twist His hand and wrist And knock you down without so much as doubling up his fist.

When he was letter perfect in the art Philetus Brown Became the fistie champion and terror of the town. Before you knew that he had moved he had you falling down: "When his quick jerk Got in its work You thought you'd been where dynamite and other dangers lurk!"

He took big Henry Billiger, who weighed three hundred pounds, And slammed him here and there with ease across the baseball grounds, And Henry's gasps of wonder were the only noted sounds. Within a week No one would speak Of physical perfection—we were mighty mild and meek.

One day while Brown of brawn and brain In boastful accents talked Phoebe Smithers sauntered up and said his old roan mule had balked. Philletus hunched his shoulders, and toward that mule he walked. Though slight and slim, His look was grim. And we in expectation hastened out and followed him.

Philetus Brown removed his coat, compelling, calm and cool. And boldly seized the pendent tail of Joseph Smithers' mule. Unheeding Joe's remark that he was acting like a fool. That's all there was. Except an interrupted "Here's what jiu jitsu does!"

Philetus Brown is out again. He hobbles with a crutch. And wraps himself with bandages—he's still too sore to touch. He hasn't yet explained the case—he isn't talking much. Some of us thought That like as not The mule had learned a trick or two Philetus hadn't got. —W. D. N. in Chicago Tribune.

Reason For Laughter.
When the young mistress of the house entered the kitchen she carried herself with great dignity. She had come to call the cook to account.

"Mary," she said, "I must insist that you keep better hours and that you have less company in the kitchen at night. Last night I was kept awake because of the uproarious laughter of one of your women friends."

"Yes, mum, I know," Mary replied cheerfully, "but she couldn't help it. I was telling her how you tried to make cake yesterday morning."—Birmingham (England) Post.

An Impressionist.
His Friend—But what does it mean? The Artist—Ah, that's just it! Don't mean nawthin! I'm an impressionist!—New York American.

A Thing to Avoid.
"Ha, that's a clever story," laughed Dawson. "Here comes Borem; tell it to him!"

"No," said Dawson, "it would be suggestive to him."

"Nonsense! Nobody could possibly consider that story suggestive."

"He could. He'd consider it suggestive of some old chestnut which he'd insist upon telling."—Catholic Standard and Times.

On Display.
Husband—Why in the world do you keep your new fur boa hanging out on the line?

Mrs. Fluffy—Because I nearly roast with it on this kind of weather and it's the only way I can let people know that I've got it.—Detroit Free Press.

Reward of Genius.
Meeks—There goes a successful inventor. Weeks—So? What did he invent? Meeks—He invented a new excuse to give his wife for remaining out till after midnight, and, strange to say, it worked.—Chicago News.

As to Love.
Aunt Jane—But do you really believe young Mr. Amour loves you as much as he says he does? Eunice—Of course not, Aunt Jane. A lover who can't exaggerate his affection is just no lover at all.—Boston Transcript.

His Invention.
Mrs. McFlub—Your husband seems to be quite versatile. Has he ever invented anything? Mrs. Sleeth—Oh, yes; one of the finest lines of midnight excuses you ever listened to.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

His Technical Defense.
"What reason does he give for not paying his wife alimony?" "He says that marriage is a lottery, and hence alimony is a gambling debt."—Collier's Weekly.

Running No Risks.
"Have you any teeth, grandpa?" "No, my boy." "Then you can hold these nuts for me."—Columbia Jester.

LIVES DEARER THAN OUR VERY OWN
How many lives dearer to us than our very own have been placed in needless jeopardy by failure to provide against and forestall the great suffering which too frequently accompanies and follows the bearing of children? That we would do anything within our power to obviate the possibility of such an happening is too patent to admit of question; therefore—mark well this fact—a liniment, by name, has been devised, whose function it is to prepare in advance the muscles and tissues intimately associated with parturition.

MOTHER'S FRIEND

This liniment is for external application. By its use the parts are relaxed and enabled to withstand not only the actual strain brought to bear on them during accouchement, but also to rally from this ordeal and speedily regain their normal proportions and tonicity. It is not irritating to the most sensitive surfaces, and is applicable to all cases. It's not enough to call it Mother's Friend—it's the friend of the whole family. $1.00, all druggists. Book "Motherhood" free.

NOTED SWINDLER

Wanted in Many Cities, is Captured by Indianapolis Police—A Woman's Disappointment.

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 2.—V. D. Sharp, captured here and identified by the Bertillon system and by the Pinkertons as one of the best known swindlers in America, is wanted in many cities. It is said he obtained more than $10,000 on worthless checks in Hot Springs, Ark., and there are calls for him from Portland, Ore., New Orleans, St. Augustine, Fla., and Chattanooga, Tenn.

Sharp came to Indianapolis about two weeks ago and was arrested on a charge of attempting to defraud Levy Bros., printers. He was accompanied by Mrs. Lulu Owen, of Birmingham, Ala., to whom he had made promises of marriage. The woman was released and Sharp is held in $2,000 bond.

Sharp put in an order for $2,000 worth of printing for a banking house at McClungburg, Ill., representing himself as the son of the banker. He will probably be taken to Chattanooga where it is charged that he raised $500 on bad paper.

The exports of domestic manufactures from the United States in 1904 exceeded for the first time $500,000,000, the total being nearly $2,000,000,000 above that sum. In 1903 the total was only $421,000,000, while the highest point ever reached prior to last year was in 1900, when the figures were $441,000,000. The increase in our iron and steel exports last year was $29,500,000, bringing the total up to $122,553,610. In copper the increase was even greater being $31,000,000, although the total was only about $74,660,000. The exhibit of our exports of manufactured articles is striking evidence of the fact that our industries are no longer infant ones and that we are able to compete in foreign markets to a large extent with their products. This being the case, the fallacy of the claim made by those who maintain that there should be no reduction in the tariff is easily manifest.

A QUEER ASSORTMENT OF MINERALS IN A DITCH

Jacob Click made a discovery of several minerals on his farm in Morrow county last week. While making a hole in the bottom of a ditch to allow water to collect for his stock, he dug up a deposit which burns like coal, although resembling slate in appearance. Another deposit taken from the same hole looks like brass, another burns and smells like crude sulphur, and there are several other substances which no one has yet been able to name.

AT BAY

Safe Robbers Held a White Town While Companions Looted the Ladoga Postoffice.

Crawfordsville, Ind. Feb. 2.—Postoffice robbers terrorized the town of Ladoga and while a couple of masked men held the awakened populace at bay, two of their companions blew the safe and stole $320.

About midnight people living in the immediate vicinity were awakened by a muffled explosion. A number rushed out in night attire to ascertain the cause. They were drive back by the guards, who emphasized their commands with pistol shots. Dr. Price raised a window to look out, but prudently retired after a bullet had buried itself in the casement, and A. C. Stark, night operator at the Telephone Exchange, was driven in under fire.

The safe was completely wrecked by the explosion, which twisted an inner door in such a manner as to shield $500 worth of stamps and supplies. The robbers left town, firing their revolvers, and escaped. The systematic manner in which they went about the job indicated that they were professionals.

CHEER UP!

Why Worry About Indigestion When Pepsikola Will Give You Relief.

"Why any one should worry about indigestion," said the head clerk in Wilkes-Barre's drug store, "is hard for us to understand.

"We have been selling Pepsikola for several months now and in all our experience we never knew a remedy to give such universal satisfaction.

"We know four or five chronic old dyspeptics on the verge of despair for years who today are cheerful and happy all because of the beneficial effects of a little chocolate coated tablet taken after each meal.

"If people only realized what a wonderful remedy it is and how much good it has done right in this very town they would not doubt or hesitate another minute." Words can not express the great good it has done in Newark, and Pepsikola must be a remedy of more than unusual merit for it Wilkes-Barre Drug Co. had to refund the money to very many dissatisfied customers they would certainly discontinue selling it on their own personal guarantee. Ask yourself if this is not true.

If you are thin, nervous, worried and in low spirits just cheer up and try a 25 cent box of Pepsikola on the drugist's say so and it will give you new nerve force, new ambition and new energy you can get back your money without any question or argument.

Since Union Center is known to be such a thriving little town, what would be more convenient than an interurban line through here. The telephone, rural delivery and other advantages we have, why not the interurban?

WHOLESALE NOTION HOUSE TO BE ESTABLISHED.

Avon Ensign a Prize Dog—Walter Stewart Dies From Typhoid—M. Mizer Is Dead.

Coshocton, O., Feb. 2.—A wholesale notion house is the newest industry that is to be secured by Greater Coshocton. An option has been taken by a big eastern house on a certain piece of property on Main street, between Fifth and Sixth, at $8500, and unless the offer is accepted the deal will be closed within ten days and the immediate erection begun of a modern three story building.

A Coshocton-raised dog has scooped everything at the Providence, Rhode Island, bench show this week. The word comes to Wm. Valentine, that "Avon Ensign" raised by Mr. Valentine at the Avon kennels north of Coshocton and owned by Charles Gibbs Carter of Pittsburg won the first in the novice class, first in the open and first in the winners' class at the big bench show.

"The dog will be shown next at the Madison Square bench show in New York City and it is expected that he will create some surprises there also. "Avon Ensign" is black and white spotted English setter and was a year old last October.

TEACHERS

Object to Doing the Work of Janitors

THEY OBJECT TO SCRUBBING

Clerk Booher Writes to State Commissioner to Learn What Can be Done.

Columbus, O., February 2.—State School Commissioner Jones has been advised by S. R. Booher, clerk of the Dundee (Tuscarawas county) board of Education, that the teachers are on a strike. He wants to know what shall be done with the fractious schoolmasters.

Clerk Booher says the teachers will not continue with their work because the board wants them to do janitor work, and they refuse to soil their hands washing windows and scrubbing.

School Commissioner Jones' sympathies are wholly with the teachers. He takes it for granted that they are handsome and lovely but whether they are or not the strike will not be of long duration, for the Commissioner points out Section 4017 of the new school code that provides that teachers cannot be hired by the day, as is being done in Dundee, but that the contracts must be for the whole school year.

Again he calls the board's attention to the section following, which says that teachers shall not do janitor work unless paid extra for it. The department is of the opinion that the board is too economical, and there are reasons to believe that it is not carrying out the letter of the law as laid down in the code.

WANDER'S VIEWS

OIL IN PAYING QUANTITIES IN THIS PART OF OHIO.

Director of the Bennington Oil and Gas Company Submits to an Interview.

Coshocton, Feb. 2.—Ev-Auditor W. A. Wander of Knox county, who is one of the directors in the Bennington Oil and Gas company, was here this week and in talking of oil and gas said:

"Oil is found in paying quantities in this part of the State in what is known as Clinton rock. In some parts it is found in the Berea sand, and in the northwestern part of Ohio, in the Trenton. These rocks are named from the places at which they crop out on the surface of the earth; the Clinton, for instance, comes out at Clinton, N. Y., the Trenton, at Trenton, N. J., and the Berea is the famous Berea sandstone of the Berea, Ohio, quarries.

"The Clinton rock in Knox county is tapped at a depth of from 2500 to 2900 feet, and investigation proves that the strata dips in an easterly direction at the rate of about 32 feet to the linear surface mile. According to these figures, to get oil in the neighborhood of Coshocton or Roscoe the drill must be penetrated to the depth of about 3500 feet.

"The drilling so far, I understand has been done to the depth of about 800 feet, where the Berea sand is tapped. Put the oil in this part of the world lies in Clinton strata and not in the Berea.

"Oh here! I don't know anything about it, but I shouldn't be surprised. That is a business that you learn nothing about in books. It is only to be learned in that very extensive school called experience. The only way to prove my words is to drill to 3500 feet. But I am firm in my belief. "Yes I should not be surprised to some day see drilling progress in Coshocton county. Some explorer will go forth and may sink a wild-cat well that will come in droves, flocks and coveys. There is no better discovery on earth for the county than to strike oil in paying quantities."

Mr. Wander and associates are the possessors of a dry hole up in the Canella neighborhood. He says it is the only dry well in Coshocton county, but that it was misplaced; that it happened to be drilled where the Clinton rock was not porous.

NEW BUILDING

AT SHEPARDSON COLLEGE IN GRANVILLE.

For Girls' Gymnasium to Cost $15,000. Dr. Deane Increases His Subscription.

Granville, O., Feb. 2.—Dr. E. W. Hunt, president of Denison university, in conversation with the writer in reference to the proposed new building for Shepardson college, gave out the following interesting facts.

Regarding the new gymnasium building for Shepardson College he said that plans and estimates had been made, but that the estimate for the construction of the building as planned, overleaved the appropriation. Dr. Hunt said that he had seen Dr. W. H. Deane of Cincinnati, who had already so generously contributed towards the construction of this building, and that he had told him to go ahead with the work, and that he would increase his subscription for the building from $1,000 to $1250, in order to construct the building in accordance with the original plans. The details of the plans are now being worked out by the architect, and bids will be asked for the construction of the building soon, after which work will be commenced immediately. The building, which is to be a very handsome structure, will be erected on the northeast corner of Shepardson campus, and will cost about $15,000.

Administration Building.
As to the Administration building and dormitory for Shepardson college, a considerable part of the money necessary for the construction of both buildings has been raised, but not enough to give out anything definite regarding the time when the work will be commenced.

DELAYED

Mailing the Insurance Policy and the Home Office Received It After the House Was Burned.

Bucyrus, O., Feb. 2.—John D. Roush on Saturday insured his residence and contents in a local insurance company, his business being done with the local agent of the company at Oceola seven miles west of Bucyrus. The house and contents were destroyed by fire Monday.

The by-laws of the company provide that insurance dates from noon of the day the application reaches the home office. The Roush application arrived in Bucyrus Monday evening and the house burned that morning.

Mr. Roush maintains that had the application been mailed Saturday it would have been in Bucyrus in ample time to protect him. He will insist on payment. The fire was, beyond doubt, accidental.

Answer and Cross Petition.

In the case of John D. Norman vs. Daisy Iden, the defendant by her attorneys, J. H. Warlenby and Jones & Jones, has filed her answer and cross petition. She says she is the widow of Sylvester Norman who died on July 14, 1904, and that as such widow she is entitled to dower in all of the real estate of the deceased. She asks that she may be adjudged to be owner of a homestead in the real estate; that her dower estate in the real estate may be assigned to her by meter and bounds, that no order of partition may be issued in this case until it shall first be determined that there is sufficient personal property to pay all of the debts and claims against the estate of Sylvester Norman, the costs of administration and the year's allowance to this defendant, and for all other just and equitable relief.

Motion Filed.

In the case of Herbert Brooks vs. Clementine Roche, the defendant has filed a motion wherein she represents that the plaintiff is a non-resident of Licking county, and asks the court for an order requiring the plaintiff to give security for costs within a certain time to be fixed by the court, or that this action be dismissed. Chas. H. Follett, attorney for the defendant.

Notice of Hearing.

In case 13,242, wherein Herbert Brooks is plaintiff and Clementine Roche is the defendant, the defendant has filed a motion to vacate and set aside the judgment, which will be pressed for hearing Monday, Feb. 13. Chas. H. Follett, attorney for defendant.

Answer Filed.

In the case of Frank A. Coble vs. Henry Wehl Sr., the defendant who has been substituted for the original defendant, has filed his answer to the petition of the plaintiff, in which he denies each and every allegation contained in the petition and says the same are untrue.

The defendant says that the real estate mentioned in the petition was land in which in 1902 and previous thereto the defendant, Henry Wehl Sr., had an estate for his natural life, and that Louise Wehl, his daughter, owned the remainder. That on Jan. 7, 1902, Louise Wehl commenced suit before A. J. Crilly, justice of the peace, against Frank Coble in forcible detainer to recover from plaintiff the coal mine and real estate and property mentioned in petition, claiming that plaintiff unlawfully and forcibly retained possession thereof; that the case was tried and the jury decided against Coble and the magistrate rendered judgment against him. Defendant says that the cause of action and judgment before Justice Crilly is a complete bar to the cause of action.

Bowser Would Farm

He Sees Dazzling Visions of Wealth In Chickens, Eggs and a Dairy—Gives Figures Showing Great Profits, but Forgets Expense, Which Mrs. B. Itemizes.

[Copyright, 1904, by T. C. McClure.]

MRS. BOWSER had been prepared for it for over an hour when it came at last. Mr. Bowser's demeanor had told her that he had a new scheme on foot, and she had patiently waited for him to broach it. He had been hatching around in a nervous way as he tried to read the evening paper, and he finally laid the sheet aside and said:

"I'd like to talk with you for a few minutes about a matter concerning our future."

"Very well," she replied.

"You know that I have often expressed a wish to get out on a farm."

"You are no farmer and would starve on the best farm in the country."

"I don't claim to be a farmer, but a man who isn't a farmer can make a living in the country, can't he? I don't propose to go to tearing stumps up by the roots and moving five acres of hay per day."

"WE START WITH FIVE HUNDRED CHICKENS."

"No? Well, what is the scheme?"

"If we could exchange this house for a hundred acre farm I'd go into the chicken and egg business, with perhaps a bit of a dairy as a side issue. I know we went over this ground once, but you got your figures all wrong and deceived me."

"Well, we'll go over it again. Let me get a pencil. What has put the notion into your head again?"

"There's money in it—big money—and I can prove it. Now, then, figure carefully and don't be in a hurry. We start with 500 chickens."

"Yes."

"The natural increase of domestic fowls is 30 per cent, but with an incubator we make it 50. We gain 250 fowls the first year. On the second year we have over 1,000 and sell at least 200. On the third year we have 1,300 and sell at least 500. That disposes of the chickens."

"Yes—go on," replied Mrs. Bowser.

"We now take up the egg question. The 500 chickens we start with ought to produce 200 eggs per day the first year. That is a total of 73,000 eggs per year and at 20 cents per dozen gives us a cash income of $3,650. The second year the income is $5,000, and the third $8,000, making over $16,000 that we must make at least $10,000 a year for the first three years. After that the income will be considerably greater."

"But about the dairy?" she asked.

"Why, I figured that we'd start in with about a dozen cows. The milk, butter and cream ought to bring in a profit of at least a thousand dollars a year. We get all this, Mrs. Bowser, while we are getting the pure air and sunshine of the country at the same time. I am also getting back my health. Every day is full of happiness and health, and all we have to do is to sit on the veranda and listen to the hum of the bees and the songs of the robins. That's my side of it, and if you have anything to say let's hear it. Understand, we exchange our house and lot even up for a farm."

"We will take it in rotation?" replied Mrs. Bowser as a feeling of pity crept into her heart. "You are to start with 500 chickens?"

"Yes—500."

"Well, even if you can buy them for 25 cents apiece, which I very much doubt, there is an outlay of $125 to start with. Had you figured on that?"

"N-o."

"Then they must be fed until you can raise corn and oats, and you can add another $50 for that. There will be the cost of your buildings and your incubator. To run an incubator and 500 chickens you must have the help of at least one man."

"You are beginning to find fault!" protested Mr. Bowser as his face began to redden.

"Not at all. We have just jotted down some figures to see how we would come out. To run a hundred acre farm you must have a hired man and at least one span of horses. No flock of hens will produce the number of eggs you figure on, nor yet half of it. You have made no allowance for deaths by diseases. We must cut your figures in half."

"By thunder, but what a fool I was to say a word to you about it!" shouted Mr. Bowser as he got up and walked about. "What do you know about business? What does any woman?"

"About your bees," she continued, without minding him. "You start with twelve hives. They will cost you $4 a hive. You don't understand bees, and you must employ somebody who does. You think of going into celery. The ground must be prepared and the seed or the plants purchased. To grow and market an acre of celery you must have the services of another man. If you go into peppermint it's the same thing—money in advance and extra help. Don't imagine for a moment that ducks, geese and turkeys can live on what the chickens leave over. Every three fowls will eat as much food as a horse."

"Make me out the biggest fool in America!" he shouted at her from across the room.

"Now, as to the side issue, dairy. You start with twelve cows, and they will cost you at least $35 each. You must build stables for them, buy feed for at least seven months, and you must have extra help again. Had you figured on that? To sum up, we can estimate that to establish such a farm as you have in mind your outlay of cash the first year would be nothing short of $3,000, and from that on you must pay at least five hundred, run all risks and work like a slave yourself. I don't want to discourage you, Mr. Bowser, but—

"Stop right there, woman!" he broke in.

"What for?"

"Because I don't propose to be made out a chump and a fool and a dunderhead in my own house. I am going out. When you get ready you can go to bed."

Mr. Bowser left the house, with a vicious slam of the front door behind him, and five minutes later was talking with his family butcher, who had once been a farmer. He hadn't got his cash half stated when the butcher's call-bell rang and he hurried to answer it.

A Surprise For Mamma.
Even to Robby's uncritical eye breakfast seemed to be served in a very informal fashion that morning. Nurse forgot to lay on his bed before she gave him his oatmeal. Mother had not come down to breakfast at all, and father drank a cup of coffee standing and then disappeared.

Robby, left alone with his empty plate, put up a trembling lip, and if tears had not been unbecomingly to a big boy he would probably have wept. Never before in all his four years had he been so neglected. He had, in fact, always been the center of an admiring circle ready to anticipate his every wish.

At last father appeared at the dining room door and the reason for this disorganized state of affairs was explained.

"Robby," said father, "you have a little sister."

Robby's eyes grew big with excitement. "Oh," he exclaimed, climbing down from his high chair in haste, "I must go and tell mamma!"—New York Press.

A PARAGRAPH has been going the rounds of the press referring to the following inscription, which, it is stated, was written by Mark Twain for the tombstone of his wife in Woodlawn cemetery, Elmhurst, N. Y.:

Warm summer sun.
Shine kindly here.
Warrior southern wind.
Blow softly here.
Green sod above.
Lie light, lie here.
Good night, dear heart;
Good night, good night.

It appears that this statement is erroneous. The lines are favorite ones with the humorist, and when he had them engraved for his daughter's—not his wife's—gravestone he inclosed them in quotation marks to indicate that he was not the author of them. Who the writer is he does not know; but, as he says, the lines were to him touching and beautiful and expressed what he felt better than any words of his own could have done.

"Why do they have yellow cars for the senate side of the national capitol and green cars for the house side?" asked a constituent of Representative Bowers of Mississippi.

"No particular reason, I guess," answered Mr. Bowers, "except that the senate's got a yellow streak and is not as green as the house."

Senator William Brimage chose to Tennessee, who was recently chosen to a fourth term in the upper branch of congress, has the reputation of being the most honest legislator at Washington. He will not frank a telegram, has never ridden on a railroad pass and, though a veteran of the Mexican war, refuses to draw a pension. He is seventy-eight years of age, but looks forward to serving his state at Washington for six more years. Senator Bate was a major general in the Confederate army and is now the ranking officer of the Confederacy in congress. He is fond of tobacco, but always twirls his cigar in his mouth without lighting it. When he was a Confederate officer he was one day riding by the side of his brother in battle. He felt a longing for a smoke coming on, so he drew a finely flavored Havana from his pocket. He scratched a match against the saddle and was just about to light the weed when a shell whizzed suddenly by, and the quick rush of air accompanying the shell put the match out. He was about to strike another when, turning, he discovered that the shell had made its mark, for there lay the dead body of his brother. To this day he has a sort of superstition regarding lighted cigars, and this explains why he only indulges in a "dry" smoke.

Senator Chauncey M. Depew tells of a bibulous traveler who entered the Grand Central station in New York and zigzagged up to the ticket window.

"Do you sell—shell tickets here?" he asked.

"What point, please?"

"Well, shay, young fellow," said the man, "what tickets have you in stock?"

Major General Arthur MacArthur, U. S. A., who on the invitation of the Japanese is to accompany their army in Manchuria and inspect their military operations there, is a veteran of two wars and senior major general of the United States army. He looks very young, and no one would take him for a fifteen year old. He was only fifteen when that war began, and his father had hard work to prevent his running away and joining the army at that age. Two years later he got into the fighting as a lieutenant in the Twenty-fourth Wisconsin regiment and was at once assigned to duty as regimental adjutant. He was so boyish looking that the soldiers at first laughed at him, but they soon learned he had the stuff of which great soldiers are made. He was major of a veteran regiment before he was nineteen years old, a record equalled only two or three times in an army of over a million men.

At the battle of Missionary Ridge in 1902 MacArthur and his men went up an almost perpendicular cliff 200 feet high, the top of which was lined with Confederate riflemen, who shot at every lead that emerged from the trees beneath. It was one of the most wonderful feats of the war. MacArthur seized the colors of the regiment at a critical moment and planted them on the captured works on the crest of the ridge. For his gallantry in this engagement he was awarded the congress medal of honor.

After the war MacArthur entered the regular army and was a captain on an Indian frontier. He was a conspicuous figure in the Philippine war and was commander of the forces in the Philippines for a time. He was a military governor in the latter part of his life and had many opportunities to note the desire of the educated Filipinos, whether friendly or hostile, to make a good impression on the Americans. On one occasion a Filipino prisoner who was brought before the general sought to impress the latter with his importance by saying:

"I am permeated with the atmosphere of European cabinets. I therefore am prepared to discuss this question on the highest plane of statesmanship."

It would not be supposed that so busy a man as James J. Hill, the railway king, who advocates a bill prohibiting railroad rebates, would have much time for reading. As a matter of fact, though deeply absorbed in transportation problems, Mr. Hill always manages to secure some time each day for a favorite book. He has been a student of Shakespeare from early manhood. Some time ago a friend met him as he came downstairs from his apartments in a New York hotel and entered the cafe for luncheon.

"I'll bet you have had a stormy conference this morning," said the friend.

"No, sir; you are wrong this time," said Mr. Hill. "I've been resting in my bed and reading

"Hamlet," as I always do when I wish mental recreation and recuperation. I try to devote several hours each day to reading. I have educated myself by reading good works. It is not in my nature to be idle, and my rest and recuperation are found in reading."

Mr. Hill has a good memory, as the following incident shows: A Minneapolis man had a horse which he desired to match in order to make a team, and he asked the railroad president to be on the lookout for a suitable mate. Not long thereafter Mr. Hill was in a little town about thirty miles from Minneapolis when he saw a man driving a horse that struck him as being a perfect mate for his friend's trotter. On returning to Minneapolis he told his friend of having seen just the horse he needed to make a perfectly matched team.

"A Mr. Wade of Ancona owns it," he said after consulting a memorandum.

"Yes," replied his friend. "I know him." That was his horse he was driving. I sold it to him last week."

Congressman Henry Wilber Palmer of Wilkesbarre, Pa., who was re-elected in November from the Eleventh district of Pennsylvania and who is a member of the committee appointed to prosecute Judge Swayne, is now serving his second term in the house of representatives. He was born in Cincinnati, Pa., in 1839, was educated at a seminary in Pennsylvania and the Port Edward Institute at Port Edward, N. Y., and also at the National Law School at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., from which he graduated in 1860, being admitted to the bar the same year. During the civil war he served in the pay department of the Union army. He was a member of the Pennsylvania constitutional convention of 1872-73 and was attorney general of the state from 1879 to 1883.

In 1861, at Plattsburg, N. Y., Representative Palmer married Miss Ellen M. Webster, who won the affection of the large mining population in her husband's district by her efforts for the improvement of social and economic conditions among the miners' families and who founded in 1891 the Boys' Industrial association, known as the "B. I. A." She worked for years in behalf of the breaker boys for the anthracite region, seeking to improve their minds and enlarge their limited educational opportunities. Many of Mrs. Palmer's "boys" have graduated from the colleges and won positions of prominence in the community.

Commander W. H. Brownson of the navy, says Collier's Weekly, tells of a German, a recruit in the naval service, who during a certain watch was, in accordance with the regulations, calling the hours.

"Seven bells and all iss vell!" called the German correctly enough. Those who heard the next call were much astonished by the amusing variation:

"Eight bells and all iss vrell! I haf droppit mein hat overboard!"

William Bliss Carman, better known in the literary world simply as Bliss Carman, writes verse that is usually in demand. It does not come back to his desk with politely phrased information that its rejection "does not imply lack of merit." But the Saturday Evening Post tells how the author of "Lines of Pan" was called when he related at the office of a country editor with a poem which he thought would be of interest to the readers of the local paper. After exchanging greetings he said:

"You don't object to an old contributor dropping into poetry, do you?"

"Not at all," replied the editor of the paper. "I'm glad to hear of you writing poetry. I'll be glad to print it for you."

"Thank you," said the editor. "I'll be glad to print it for you."

"Thank you," said the editor. "I'll be glad to print it for you."

An Animal Story For Little Folks

The Cunning Ape

One day the leopard met an ape on the road, and as he was feeling a bit hungry he decided to sit down and eat the little fellow.

"Very well," said the ape meekly. "I hope you will enjoy yourself, for I always liked you."

"Thank you," said the leopard. "You've been a good friend of mine, and I want you to allow me to do you a favor before you cut my throat."

"What is it?"

"I have in this cocoanut an immense sum of money," said the ape, "and I would be glad to share it with you."

"You've been a good friend of mine," said the leopard. "I want to make you a present of it. You will be rich and happy all the rest of your life."

"Thank you," said the leopard. "And to be sure that it is all here," said the ape, "I want to break the cocoanut open."

"Of course," said the leopard. "And as there are no stones about here I shall have to ask that you let me crack the cocoanut on your head," continued the ape.

"Very well," consented the leopard. Then Mr. Ape took the cocoanut between his two hands and hauled off and cracked Mr. Leopard such a rattling good blow on the skull that the big fellow fell over on the ground as if dead.

And you may be sure that before he came to his senses Mr. Ape was many miles away.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Hopeless.
"Why are you sad, Alice?" her mother asked.

"I've decided not to keep company with Mr. Jones any more."

"Dear me! Have you heard anything about him?"

"No. But last night when I said I wished that I was a man he merely asked me why instead of getting excited and saying that life would be hateful to him if I had not been born a girl."—Chicago Record-Herald.

It Ain't Dues.
"And then, sir," said the man in the street car who was talking to a fellow passenger—"and then something happened to attract my attention."

"I'll bet I know what it was," replied the other.

"You can't possibly guess."

"But I think I can. A woman entered the car who was talking to a fellow passenger—and then something happened to attract my attention."

"I'll bet I know what it was," replied the other.

Has an Offer to Manage Montpelier, Vermont, Ball Team and Pitch at the Same Time.

Mr. Vernon O., Feb. 2.—Tate Cromley, the twirler, sold by Indianapolis to Detroit at the close of last season, may not be seen in the American league the coming season. The blank contract he received from Detroit some weeks ago was returned by him without even a hint as to the cause. When asked as to his intentions, Cromley replied that he may accept a splendid offer he has received from the management of an independent team in Montpelier, Vt., to pitch and act as playing manager.

Again, he may give up baseball altogether and continue his law studies throughout the summer.

"Ridiculously low," was the only comment he would make on the figures offered by the Detroit management on the salary contract.

Cromley has had an offer to coach the Navy team at Annapolis this spring, but is not considering this seriously. He is well acquainted with those at the head of the Vermont team, however, and looks upon their offer with much favor.

AMUSEMENTS

A MESSAGE FROM MARS.

Delightful and wholesome comedy as promised at the Auditorium Friday, February 3, when Mr. Charles Hawtrey will be seen in that wonderfully successful comedy, "A Message from Mars." In this piece he appeared over 500 times in London and all one season at the Garrick theatre, New York, and has since twice revived the play for long runs at Broadway theatres. He is the only foreign actor who has ever been able to amuse New Yorkers for an entire season with one play. Mr. Hawtrey is said to possess great personal charm, and unquestionably his play must have far more than ordinary merit. It is reported to appeal with equal force to audiences in all parts of the theatre. Seats are now on sale.

MISS BOB WHITE.

Atmosphere lends so much to the modern attraction, be it in the operatic or dramatic field, and to his adherence to this policy might be attributed the success of the various Spencer operas, for instance, "The Little Tycoon," the first of the Japanese musical plays, the flash of the radiantly colored lanterns, the kimono and the

OUT OF THE FOLD.

Practically intact from its recent run in New York, Henry B. Marks' production of Landon McCormick's rural comedy drama, "Out of the Fold" is the attraction booked for the Auditorium soon. This play has met with distinct favor wherever it has been seen, although it is a problem play, involving the old, old question as to whether or not a woman who has grievously sinned is entitled to the love and name of a good man. The author has handled this question and answered it so cleverly that it is generally believed he has written the really great moral drama. Critics all over the country have most flattering comments upon it, the New York Sun, said as it is, grew so enthusiastic as to pronounce "Out of the Fold" the greatest of modern rural dramas. The spirit of this criticism is noticeable in nearly all of the newspaper comments recently made.

The Melba Concert.

Mrs. Katharine Thurman Sinks secretary of the board of managers of the Children's Hospital at Columbus has just written the Advocate a kind note expressing the board's appreciation of services rendered in behalf of the Melba concert. Mrs. Sinks says in conclusion:

As shown by the box office at the theatre, the out of town patronage was very large, and the ladies feel very much indebted to the press of Central Ohio for their most generous co-operation.

ENJOYABLE DANCE

Given at Assembly Hall Wednesday Night to the Employees of Powers-Miller Store.

The Powers-Miller company Wednesday evening gave a most enjoyable entertainment to their employees in the nature of a dancing party at Assembly Hall. The Marsh orchestra rendered the best of music and the sixty couples who attended spent a most enjoyable evening. The clerks and other employees of the department store appreciate this courtesy on the part of the company.

A NEW STORE

The store will be first class in every particular, and as Mr. Lercman comes to Newark in his recommendation, he will be a good business here.

LILLIAN HARRIS

burning incense, were the novelty. In his next effort, "Princess Bonnie," the crisp sea air as invigorating as we find it in the Atlantic or off the Maine coast, seem to add a flavor of the rolling surf that tempted to delight; while in "Miss Bob White" which Messrs. Niven & Zimmerman announce for early product at the Auditorium, one night, February 7 we find the opera laid in the mountainous section of our own state. We see the rolling hills, rich with green and find it as refreshing as the first breath of autumn after the heated summer, and quoting the line of a famous song, "There is sunshine of the country in its theme and manner too." See on sale Saturday, February 4.

PECK'S BAD BOY.

Henry Peck, known to the world as "Peck's Bad Boy," will arrive in town and hold his reception at the Auditorium, matinee and night, on Saturday, February 4. This season he will bring all his old friends and a lot of new ones. He also brings with him a large number of such class comedians, singers and dancers, and a host of beautiful girls, who will introduce many brilliant and startling specialties, including new songs, new songs, duets, trios and medleys of the latest and most popular airs of the day.

HOYT'S "A BUNCH OF KEYS."

When taken into consideration that he is the author of "A Bunch of Keys" comes this marvellously successful play. It is a play that has been produced in every city of the United States and has received the highest estimate of its popularity. It is a play that is a must for every theatre, and it is a play that can be played over and over again.
